

Parl Panel Seeks Update on India’s GPU Ambitions

Committee on IT asks MeitY to detail progress on cloud and startup consultations, offers to co-create a scalable AI infrastructure plan

Our Bureau

New Delhi: A parliamentary panel has again questioned the government on how it plans to reduce supply chain risks to help India realise its graphics processing unit (GPU) ambitions.

The Parliamentary Standing Committee on Communications and Information Technology, in its latest report, quizzed the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) about the progress made in consultations with cloud service providers and startups. The panel also offered to help co-create a scalable infrastructure plan. Back in March, the panel had argued that while the AI landscape was fast changing, and that it had concerns about the development of a sovereign AI model.

In its action taken report, MeitY has argued has pointed to delays in obtaining clearances including from the cabinet and the external experts needed to form the search-cum-selection committees, as well as inter-ministerial consultations and approvals.

It had noted the global memory chip shortage, as well as huge power and water consumption by data centres and tax holiday as significant issues.

“The Committee would like to be enlightened about the progress made in mitigating supply chain risks and for co-creating a robust and scalable infrastructure plan,” it said. In March, the committee had also suggested MeitY hold wide ranging consultations on the issue.

The committee also called for more details from the government on the progress made on operationalising the Data Protection Board of India (DPBI), which is yet to be formed more than 8-months after the Digital Personal Data Protection (DPDP) Rules, 2025 were notified.

Wonderful Plans to Hire 1k FDEs in India

Tanishka Dubey

Mumbai: Enterprise AI startup Wonderful is planning to scale its India team to as many as 1,000 forward-deployed engineers (FDEs) over the next 10 to 12 months, co-founder and chief technology officer Roey Lalazar told ET, as the company bets on the country becoming one of its largest markets.

Founded in 2025 by Lalazar and Bar Winkler, Wonderful is a platform that provides AI-native apps and agents for enterprises across telecom, finance, and healthcare.

The India operation will be led by Bhavik Rathod, whose earlier stints include Scale AI and Scaler, and as a founding member at Uber India, having launched its Bengaluru operations.

The Amsterdam-headquartered startup, valued at $2 billion, works only with large enterprises, Rathod said. “We don’t work with mid-market or small enterprises. We truly see ourselves as a partner with every enterprise,” he added, pointing to the largest banks, telcos, aviation, manufacturing, energy, healthcare, and retail firms as targets. Wonderful will open offices in Mumbai and Bengaluru, and work across sectors, noted Lalazar.

The company positions itself as a horizontal AI platform that helps enterprises deploy customer-facing AI agents across voice, chat, and email, spanning multiple languages and markets.
