

Bhopal Police roll out dual-TI administrative model

Misrod becomes the state capital's first station to formally split territorial jurisdictions and establish separate chambers

Bhopal: The Bhopal Police Commissioner Office has introduced a novel operational framework for police stations operating with dual Inspectors (TIs). In a pioneering move at the Misrod police station, jurisdictional boundaries within the precinct have been formally demarcated alongside dedicated chambers for each station in-house, aiming to streamline workflow and improve public access.

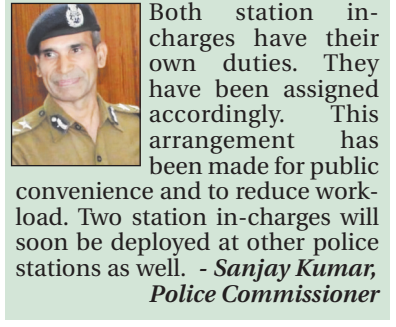

Jurisdiction split and accountability

Under the new arrangement, specific territories are divided between the two stationed TIs to reduce mounting administrative pressure. However, guidelines stipulate that primary accountability for any untoward incident within the station premises rests solely with the principal station in-house.

While top brass designed the model to optimize service delivery, internal sources indicate it has sparked discussion within the department regarding command structures.

Potential expansion across city precincts

Police Commissioner Sanjay Kumar noted that responsibilities have been meticulously assigned based on operational needs. If this initial deployment proves effective, the dual-TI framework is slated for gradual implementation across other high-pressure police stations throughout the capital.

Both station in-charges have their own duties. They have been assigned accordingly. This arrangement has been made for public convenience and to reduce workload. Two station in-charges will soon be deployed at other police stations as well. - Sanjay Kumar, Police Commissioner
