

Calicut University's 'Suvega' to offer 24/7 services

The Hindu Bureau
KOZHIKODE

Services under the 'Suvega' digital service centre of the University of Calicut (CU) will soon be available round-the-clock through an AI chatbot.

Till now, the centre functioning from the Tagore Nikethan complex used to answer queries between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. every day. According to university sources, using AI technology will enable the centre to attend calls from around the world 24/7. IT section staff at the university will be roped in for the purpose.

At present, two staff are engaged to attend calls between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m., six others are in the 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. shift, and two staff are there in the 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. shift. More people will be engaged between 12 p.m. and 2 p.m. on a working arrangement basis. The existing audio services at the centre will be enhanced, the sources said.

A.T. Abdul Jabbar, Syndicate standing committee convenor on exams, said the new reform is part of the university's attempt to offer student-friendly services.

State launches My Police Station project to enhance citizen-friendly services

Chief Minister V.D. Sathesnan says the project seeks to make the police a 'friend' and a source of support for people, while retaining the deterrent role of the force against crime

The Hindu Bureau
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Chief Minister V.D. Sathesnan on Friday formally launched the 'My Police Station' project that aims to transform police stations into accessible and citizen-friendly service centres.

Speaking at the State-level launch of the initiative on the Perorkada police station premises in Thiruvananthapuram, Mr. Sathesnan said the project sought to make the police a "friend" and a source of support for people, while retaining the deterrent role of the force against crime.

The programme, he added, should create a sense among citizens that the police station belonged to them and that the police would stand by them in times of distress.

The Chief Minister said the initiative was particularly important at a time when the nature of crimes was changing rapidly, with cybercrime, drug-related offences and technology-driven crimes posing new challenges.

The police force would have to equip itself with modern technology and investigative capabilities to keep pace with increasingly sophisticated criminals, he said.

Courteous behaviour

Mr. Sathesnan also stressed the need for courteous behaviour towards people of the force against crime. Citizens approached police stations for filing complaints, reporting crimes, and obtaining verification and other services. Women, children and elderly persons were among those who frequently visit stations, and they should be received with dignity and compassion, he pointed out.

Delivering the presidential address, Home Minister Ramesh Chennithala said the project was designed to transform all 484 police stations in the State into more welcoming and citizen-oriented institutions.

He pointed out that police stations should no longer be viewed as places meant only for criminals or people facing legal trouble. Like village and panchayat offices, they should function as public service centres that the people could approach for assistance.

He also announced a series of organisational changes aimed at making the police force more responsive. Sub-Inspectors would be given greater operational responsibilities by being appointed as Station House Officers (SHOs), while Circle Inspectors would take up supervisory responsibilities over selected stations. Notably, as many as 63 police stations would have women serving as SHOs under the proposed changes, he said.

The Home Minister said senior police officers would also be required to visit police stations regularly and submit reports so that shortcomings could be identified and corrective measures introduced. He emphasised that police personnel should respect legal safeguards and Supreme Court directives relating to arrests and custody.

With CCTV cameras installed in police stations, including lock-ups, the department must ensure that custodial violence and deaths did not occur, he said.

Health Minister K. Muralidharan, Thiruvananthapuram Mayor V.V. Rajesh, State Police Chief Ravada A. Chandrasekhar, Home Secretary Minhaj Alam, and Additional Director General of Police and the State Minister for senior police officers were among those who participated in the programme.

Expert committee to check structural issues of Kozhikode KSRTC terminal building

The Hindu Bureau
KOZHIKODE

An expert committee will be formed soon to check the structural issues and decide on the renovation of the Kerala State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) terminal building in Kozhikode city, Transport Minister C.P. John has said.

The Minister was speaking after inspecting the terminal on Mavoor Road on Friday. The building is owned by the Kerala Transport Development Finance Corporation (KTDFC), a related case is pending before the Kerala High Court.

Mr. John said the expert committee would examine the alleged defects in the construction of the terminal and submit a report. A decision on the renovation would be taken only based on the committee's findings, he added.

The Minister pointed out that transport management committees were functioning at all KSRTC depots to address issues concerning depot buildings and undertake necessary maintenance and repair works.

During his visit, Mr.

John also inspected the portion of the roof of the terminal's waiting area that had fallen off and the leakage reported on the first floor. K. Jayanth, M.L.A., Assistant Transport Officer P.K. Prashobh, and depot Engineer Suresh Soman accompanied the Minister.

Death of wild boar raises concerns in Kasaragod

The Hindu Bureau
KASARAGOD

The death of wild boars in Vorkady panchayat on the Kasaragod-Dakshina Kannada border has raised concerns, with the carcasses of at least 10 animals reportedly found in different parts of the panchayat over the past two weeks.

Locals suspect that the actual number of deaths could be higher, with two more carcasses, including that of a large female wild boar, found on Thursday. The carcasses were found in areas including Poyya and Kalla Jali.

Poyya ward member K.M. Malathi said 10 wild boars were found dead in the Poyya area alone. Locals suspect that the number of deaths could be more, as the carcasses of wild boars was first reported in the area 15 days ago.

Meanwhile, officials from Health, Animal Husbandry and Forest departments visited the area and conducted an inspection. Serum samples were sent to the Regional Disease Diagnostic Laboratory in Kannur for detailed analysis to determine the cause of death.

The residents urged the authorities to ensure that the carcasses were safely disposed of to prevent any possible health or environmental risk. Concerns were raised by residents in the light of the recent detection of an H1N1 influenza case in Vorkady.
