Khamenei says US will face blows

Iranian supreme leader issues warning as Tehran faces US blockade & sanctions over its aviation

TEHRAN

Iran's supreme leader Mojtaba Khamenei said on Monday the United States would be forced to leave the West Asia after suffering "painful blows", according to a statement carried by state television.

Khamenei, who has not been seen in public since the start of the West Asia war in late February, made the remarks despite attempts to revive talks aimed at ending the fighting.

"Today, having suffered painful blows at the hands of valiant fighters and the guardians of the Strait of Hormuz, they (the enemies) do not venture beyond the Arabian Sea," Khamenei said in the written statement attributed to him, without explicitly mentioning the United States.

"Whenever they have braved this risk, they have only brought harm upon themselves. It will not be long before the Arabian Sea, too, would rid itself of their presence," he added.

The Arabian Sea, stretching from the Arabian Peninsula toward India in the east, is a vital maritime corridor that leads to Iran's coasts and the Strait of Hormuz.

Iran and the United States have been vying for control over Hormuz since the Middle East war started with US-Israeli strikes on Iran in February.

Before the war began, the strategic shipping route carried about a fifth of the world's oil and gas. But Tehran imposed a blockade on Hormuz after the war started, prompting Washington to respond with its own blockade on Iranian ports.

Iran protests US flight curbs

Meanwhile, Iran has lodged a complaint with the United Nations over US sanctions against its aviation sector that have forced the cancellation of flights, state media reported Monday.

This month the United States imposed restrictions on the entire aviation industry in the Iran and vowed to take a hard line against companies that assist it.

Araghchi to meet mediators, rules out direct US talks

NEW YORK

IRANIAN Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi and an Iranian delegation were due to meet mediators involved in negotiations with the United States on Monday, Iran's ISNA news agency reported. The mediating team and Iranian delegation would "discuss the latest proposals and views on the current situation", ISNA reported. There are no plans for direct negotiations with the United States, Iran's Tasnim news agency said.

Iran's delegation in New York for the UN General Assembly is not planning further talks with the United States, state media reported Monday, after Donald Trump said he expected more negotiations soon.
